Subject: Conservation District

Town Council Members

I'm writing to express my support for creating a historic conservation district in the village area of Zionsville.

I am a chemical engineer and a 8-year resident of Zionsville. I've worked for DuPont (previous Dow Chemical) for 20 years. I've had the pleasure of living in multiple, very different physical locations in the U.S. - Pittsburgh (PA), Baton Rouge (LA), Midland (MI), and now Zionsville - which has allowed me to experience different models of city/town planning and the associated overall quality of life impact of development decisions

Zionsville offers a very unique experience in the Indianapolis metro area with its historic charm and walkable downtown streets. This should rightfully be thought of as a kind of strategic advantage for the town to bring in visitors and outside spending. Additionally, the town's residents are uniquely engaged in the direction of the town's future, which should be valued and respected.

Thanks for taking time to read this message.

Sincerely,
Michael Diffendal
